PROJECT DESCRIPTION

With this LTTC, we'd like to equip youth workers, youth trainers and educators with the skills of graphic facilitation, graphic recording, using infographics, and other tools in order to foster / ensure non-violent communication in educational process addressing current challenges such as intercultural dialogue in the work with marginalized groups or preventing radicalization of young people and to develop critical thinking abilities.

Nowadays, some people don't have enough tolerance and patience to understand or "hear" their new community neighbors who might face various cultural, religious, social or language obstacles. This is a challenge which we'll obviously need to work on and put a lot of efforts in overcoming it. That's why alternative methods of communication as well as methods of education are very helpful in this situation. Youth workers, trainers became essential actors of the process of change: they are not only educators, also supporters, mediators, leaders, coaches, guides, mentors etc.

The Long-term Training Course "Go Visual" contains two trainings ("GO Play" and "GO on-line") during which participants will share and learn various kinds of interactive, visual, on-line and game methodology and techniques that will help them to work with youth. Between two trainings there will be an online learning phase, when participants are putting into practice the competences they developed during the first stage, with support of trainers and experts.

THIS INFOPACK IS FOR THE "GO PLAY" TRAINING COURSE ONLY

During "Go Play" Training Course (7 working days) participants will share and learn different board, card and other kind of games with educational aims. Moreover, have possibility to develop own smart games or gather ideas of educational use of existed games. In order to engage and empower youth educational interest and motivation.

OBJECTIVES OF THE "GO PLAY" TRAINING COURSE:

- To reflect on the existing "game" or "board game" and how they are used in the youth trainings;
- To share personal experience of using the games, and reflecting critically on the learning outcomes;
- To create and practice new games and tools,
